

2009 Sauvignon Blanc Adelaide Hills

In recent years many have come to enjoy the delights of a good Sauvignon Blanc. New Zealand should be congratulated for producing so many great examples and exporting them to the world and particularly Australia.

The Adelaide Hill's has become Australia's pre-eminent region for this variety and Semprevino is proud of it's second release. This wine holds it's place amongst the best from the region. It has a complex aroma displaying typical Sauvignon Blanc traits of herbaceous grassiness along with floral and fruity characters. The palate has a fresh zesty acid structure.

After the late January heat wave, 2009 provided excellent ripening conditions for the production of high quality Sauvignon Blanc.

This wines aromas are lifted and intensely perfumed. Herbaceous characters are intermingled with floral, lime & white peach scents. The palate is zesty with a long dry finish.

Perfect for a hot summers day.

Russell Schroder
Winemaker

| | |
|---------------|---|
| Analysis | Alcohol - 13.7%/vol pH - 3.12 Total acidity - 6.2 g/l |
| Pricing | $21 per bottle or $210 per case (12 bottles) |
| Availability | Available for delivery in October 2009 |
| Peak Drinking | Summer 2009/2010 |
| Drink With | Brilliant with savories or asian dishes |